Were My Wealthy Hosts Fugative Nazis?

By Miriam Racquel Feldman

Before I became more observant of my Jewish heritage, I often had interesting encounters of the strange kind that kept reminding me of my Jewishness. You see, I grew up not only unobservant of my faith, but I rejected it; I was even ashamed of it. I rejected religion in general because as a very free-spirited liberal college graduate, I loved being able to do, think and behave by the rules that I decided. I was ashamed of my Jewish roots because what seemed to make Jews different and therefore selected us out for anti-Semitism, persecution and prejudice, frightened me terribly. If only we could blend in and be like others, then no one would single us out. Perhaps that was the protection we needed.

And so I did the best I could to blend in with the world at large, have fun, explore different cultures and make purpose out of causes that interested me.

But what was odd was that no matter how much I tried to forget about my Jewish roots, it kept emerging front and center in my life, sometimes in frightening ways.

After graduating college, I took a month-long trip to Brazil with a friend. Marie was half-German and half-Spanish, and was raised in Canada. I met her in Germany during my junior year of studies abroad. She was employed as a scientist at the German university where I was studying. As an extrovert, she easily befriended the many German Brazilians who, as a result of their dual citizenship, were able to study at the university. They warmly welcomed her to visit them upon their return back to South America, and she generously included me in that invite.

In the course of our travels around that very large country, we visited many of her German-South American friends, and I'd often be met with the question: "What are you?"

Though I would try to get away with replying that I was just American, they would question further and not be satisfied until I said I was Jewish. It was almost like they sensed it - hence the deeper questioning. And then I was surprised how often I would hear back: "Oh, my grandfather was Jewish!" or "My great aunt was Jewish." I remembered learning in my Holocaust studies course that as the winds of antisemitism blew in before Hitler started World War II, many German Jews made their way to South American countries to seek refuge. I felt an odd but familiar connection to these new friends, ones who shared a piece of Jewish ancestral lineage with me. They were curious to know more about Judaism, but I didn't have much knowledge to share, and so the topic was dropped.

One evening, Marie borrowed a sedan and I found myself being bumped along a dark road on a visit to the German-South American parents of a coworker of Marie's who had recently settled in Germany. Huge metal gates and a guard greeted us upon our arrival to this very wealthy gated community outside of São Paulo. After sharing the name of the family we had come to visit, we were allowed to enter. The looming gates parted, and we continued along the road, large street lamps illuminating the finely manicured lawns of each stately home.

Pulling up to one, we parked and rang the bell of the impressive doorway, white marbled lions perched on either side. If this was the outside, I wondered what the inside would look like. I hugged Marie and said, "It's so amazing to get such an insider's tour of Brazil. This is like the 'behind the scenes' version that I never would have seen if I traveled here by myself. Thank you."

"No problem." She hugged me back warmly. "Gretchen will be so excited that we visited her mom and dad."

Suddenly, the humongous wooden door opened. A gray-haired couple stood on the other side: a short, stout woman and a tall, erect man.

The woman said "Hello, please come in." She waved us in.

Marie's face lit up and she grasped the hands of the hostess. "Hallo! I'm Marie, and this is my good friend, Meryl. We're so glad to visit you. Gretchen is such a dear friend of mine."

The hostess turned and put her hand out towards me, "Nice to meet ..."

I didn't hear the end of her sentence. My eyes were glued to a huge silver menorah that sat on a platform in the center of the sunken living room. Nine branches stared at me: four level on each side of an elevated branch in the middle. A Jewish candelabra on display, like in a museum. Why did this German couple have a Jewish article on display in their home? Either they were Jewish or, like the Holocaust stories that flashed through my mind, they were Nazis who had ransacked Jewish homes.

I froze in place. I believed it was the latter.

I ignored the hostess's outstretched hand and looked to the man, so straight was his stance, like a soldier. I pointed to the gleaming silver structure and asked clearly in English, "Where did you get that Jewish menorah?"

He walked over to it and stood behind it. With the platform, its largeness reached up to the top of his chest.

"I'm a collector of things, and I brought this with me when I left Germany." The floor dropped out from under me as I nodded and stared. I had no words for his simple explanation, and I didn't have the guts to confront him on my suspicions.

He paused and then asked: "Are you Jewish?"

"I'm American, but my family is Jewish."

I was chilled as an awkward silence filled the room like a heavy fog.

This couple had been on one side of the war, my Jewish ancestors on the other.

Lost in my thoughts, I barely heard our hostess's invitation to the table, "Come let's sit and eat. The food is getting cold, and we want to hear about your travels around Brazil."

She beckoned us forward, and we sat around the elegant table laden with food. The seductive steamy aroma filled the air as the host removed the hot cover of the china dish. Doling out warm portions, the couple was the epitome of politeness. I picked at what was on my plate, having left my appetite behind at the doorway to this grand manor. The hosts and Marie babbled in German and I sat quietly, alone in my thoughts.

History had become present for me; all those stories from my high school Holocaust class flooded my mind - stories of Nazis who had run to South America to escape trial and accountability for their horrible war crimes against Jews. I had such sympathy for the few Jewish survivors who, having slipped from death's hands, survived and returned to their homes only to find them looted by anti-Semitic neighbors. I paid no attention to the flow of the conversation. Instead, I put two and two together; some Nazis must have taken their looted treasure abroad to decorate their new homes, bringing something of the people they had persecuted with them. My stomach turned; my travels had led me to one.

I politely nodded as we took our leave. The fog of silence followed me into the car as we rode back to the city.

"Are you OK?" Marie asked.

"Yeah, sure," I said.

Marie rambled on excitedly about her German friend's home and parents. "They were so nice, and their home was so beautiful and huge. I loved the artwork they had; it was like being in a museum."

Her words droned on.

A museum all right. A collection of the artifacts of dead people - people they may have even killed. And if I had lived in Europe during that time, I would have been one of their victims.

It was only later in time that I embraced my Jewish heritage and became more observant of my faith. I came to study about the Jewish soul and how deeply connected it is to G-d, even to the degree of being a piece of G-d. It wasn't something that a Jew could escape from. No matter where they traveled, their Jewish soul came with them. And it prodded them to seek ... to seek and find that connection. To dust off the falsities that may have covered it and to reveal its essence. There was truly nothing to be ashamed of but only light to proudly embrace.

The memory of the Holocaust menorah remained seared in my brain. It showed me that the G-d I thought I didn't believe in had taken me on a journey. I could travel to a faraway place - one decorated with beautiful things - but my connection to my people would be right in front of me. I would always stand apart, yet the more I learned about my G-dly connection, the less alone I would be. I had deep roots that connected me to this world, but a soul that connected me on High.

The Broken Olive Oil Bottle

By Elimelech Biederman

A Jew from Israel traveled to Australia some sixty years ago but wasn't familiar where there was a Beit Midrash. He couldn't ask anyone because he didn't know the language. Shabbat was approaching, and he needed a place to be.

He came up with an idea. He went to a fish store on Friday and figured that if he saw someone buying a large fish, he might be a Jew.

The plan worked. He asked someone buying a large carp whether he was a Jew. The man replied that he was, and he invited him to be with him on Shabbat. "It isn't every day that I have the opportunity to perform Hachnasat Orchim (Hospitality)."

They spent a pleasant Shabbat together, singing Shabbat songs and speaking words of Torah. On Motzei Shabbat, after thanking his host, he said, "from the looks of your beautiful house, I understand that Hashem blessed you with wealth. But there is something I was wondering about. May I ask you?"

"Go ahead."

"Why do you keep a broken olive oil bottle in your dining room China closet?"

The man replied, "That oil bottle is very precious to me because it carries the story of my life. I'll tell you about it:

"My father passed away when I was young. As the oldest child, I was responsible for supporting my widowed mother and my younger siblings. Kind people had rachmanut (mercy) on me, and they helped me get into the business field. Baruch Hashem (thank G-d), I had immediate success. There was plenty of money in the house. However, together with my financial success came my spiritual decline. The first thing to go was my Kippa. Soon, the mitzvot were left behind, too.

"One afternoon, I saw a young Jewish child sitting on the curb near my house, crying. It is always painful for me to see a child crying, probably because I'm an orphan, so I asked the child whether he wanted to tell me what had happened. The child said, 'Chanukah is approaching, and my father sent me to buy olive oil. He warned me to be careful because we are poor, and he would be upset if the bottle broke. I tried to be cautious, but a cat ran right to me. Startled, I fell, and the bottle broke.' The young boy showed me the broken bottle lying in the gutter. He said, 'How can I go to my father without the Chanukah oil?'

"I gave the child some money and told him to buy two bottles of olive oil: one for me and one for his father."

The host explained, "I didn't light Chanukah candles for several years, but that year, I did. When the child said, 'How can I go to my father without the Chanukah oil?' I remembered how my father lit Chanukah candles each year. I thought to myself, "The day will eventually come when I will meet with my Father in heaven. How can I meet my Father without Chanukah candles? How can I go to Him without this mitzvah?"

"I took the broken bottle shards from the gutter, because something told me that this was a turning point in my life.

"That year, I lit the Chanukah candles. Soon afterward, I was keeping Shabbat. Then came Tefillin. Now, Thank G-d, I have a beautiful family, all following the Torah's ways. This all began because of that broken olive oil bottle. Now you understand why I saved it all these years!"

Which date in the Hebrew calendar is sometimes a Chag and sometimes an ordinary day?

Yes! There is one date on which sometimes we say Hallel and sometimes we say Tachnun.

The answer is the third of Tevet which will fall on this coming Tuesday.

You see, it all depends on how many days Rosh Chodesh there are at the beginning of the month of Tevet – and of course, Rosh Chodesh Tevet always falls right in the middle of Chanukah. If there are two days of Rosh Chodesh, as is the case this year, (and therefore there will also be a thirtieth of Kislev) the third of Tevet will fall after Chanukah and is, therefore, an ordinary day. Next year, and on other similar years, the month of Kislev will have twenty-nine days. There will be one day missing and consequently the third of Tevet will be the last day of Chanukah. So if you have your birthday on the third of Tevet, sometimes your birthday is associated with an incredible Chag, and sometimes it is a day that is pretty ordinary.

This is absolutely fascinating, especially as the 8th day of Chanukah in our tradition has a special name. It is considered to be the ultimate day of the entire festival. It is called 'Zot Chanukah'. It is taken from our Torah reading for the festival of Chanukah – from the Parsha of Nasso in the book of Bamidbar. On each day of the festival, we read about the contributions that the heads of the tribes brought. And then on the eighth day the Torah says 'זאת תנכת המזבח' – "this is the dedication of the altar" – the summation of all the contributions. And that is why that eighth day is called Zot Chanukah as if to suggest that this is the essence of the festival – this is the day on which our celebration reaches its greatest height.

Of course, we can understand this in the context of the famous debate between Beit Hillel and Beit Shammai. Beit Shammai (Mesechet Shabbat) taught that on the first night of Chanukah we light eight candles, then seven, then six, all the way down to one on the concluding night. But Beit Hillel, whose view we follow to this day, taught "מעלין בקודש" on each day of the festival we do more than what we did on the previous day, going from one on the first night to eight on the concluding night. And that is the lesson for us. We should raise the bar of our aspirations to achieve more than what we have previously attained, so we end on a high! Isn't it amazing – sometimes the third of Tevet is the ultimate day of a festival and sometimes it is pretty ordinary.

But actually I believe that that is not really the case. Because in terms of programming we know that the events we hold are important, not primarily for what we do upon them but for the follow up that they inspire. If Chanukah was only an eight day wonder – well it is brilliant while it lasts but what does it do for us the rest of the year? The message of Chanukah is that throughout our lives we need to raise that bar even higher and therefore the third of Tevet is a most significant date in our calendar. It is on that day that we strive to achieve even more than what we performed during the festival. That is the greatest sign of the success of Chanukah. The third of Tevet is never an ordinary day. It is either a festival or perhaps something even more important than that.

So let's pray together for our soldiers and healthcare professionals, and Chevra Kadisha members worldwide, and for those who need healing, shidduchim, children and parnassah and may we be blessed to have the most awesome, gorgeous, beautiful, peaceful, healthy, amazing, relaxed, spiritual Shabbat and happy Chanukah.

Shabbat Chanukah / Day 6.
FIRST DAY ROSH CHODESH TEVET

This year, we take out three Sifrei Torah; in the first Sefer Torah we have six Aliyot in the weekly Parsha (Mikeitz). In the second Torah we have one Aliyah in Parshat Pinchas – (Bamidbar 28:9-15) the two paragraphs "וביום השבת" and "ובראשי חדשיכם".
The Maftir reads in the third Sefer Torah from Parshat Naso (Bamidbar 7:42-7:47) from "וביום הששי" until "ביום דעואל".

The Haftarah is read in Zechariah 2:14 4:7 "רוני ושמחי", some add the first and last Passuk of the Rosh Chodesh Haftarah, followed by the first and last Passuk of the Machar Chodesh Haftarah.

☞ EREV CHANUKAH

On Erev Chanukah, we say Tachanun during Shacharit but not at Mincha.

Some have the custom to take out and prepare their Menorah three days before Chanukah and they keep it out till the third day after Chanukah.

☞ MENORAH LIGHTING: WHO?

All men light the Menorah. Boys are also trained to do so from a young age.

Women are obligated to light the Menorah. Practically, a married woman fulfils her obligation through her husband's lighting, and a girl fulfils her obligation through her father's lighting. Therefore, they should be present when the Menorah is lit, and they should have in mind to fulfil their obligation. Even very young girls should be present when the Menorah is lit. For this reason, the Menorah lighting should be scheduled at a time when everyone can be present. [Nevertheless, they have still fulfilled their obligation even if not present.]

In the following circumstances, a woman should recite the Brachot and light the Menorah herself:

- An unmarried woman who does not permanently live with her father. [This includes seminary girls.]
- A woman who is temporarily away from her family home and husband/father, and she is not guesting with someone who is lighting the Menorah, e.g. she is in a hotel, hospital, or empty home.
- A woman who remains at home, but her husband/father is away for the night.

A woman who is temporarily away from her family home and husband/father, but she is guesting with a host who is lighting the Menorah, she automatically fulfils her obligation through her father's/husband's lighting at the family home, unless:

- It is daytime in her time-zone when her husband/father lights Menorah.
- Her husband/father is away from the family home and lighting elsewhere.

In these two cases, the woman should participate in her host's lighting by sharing in the expenses of the oil and wicks, and she should also be present when the Menorah is kindled.

☞ MENORAH LIGHTING: VENUE

One must light at home (where he usually eats and sleeps) and nowhere else. Even if eating out, one must still light the Menorah at home.

If one is away from home the entire night, he should light at the place where he is lodging. If he is still there the following night, he may light there as well, even if he intends to relocate later during the night.

One should avoid crossing the International Dateline during Chanukah. Similarly, one should avoid travel plans that prevent him from lodging overnight in a dwelling. One who finds himself in such a situation should consult a Rav.

☞ MENORAH LIGHTING: WHERE?

Some hold the Menorah is lit inside, some hold it should be lit in a doorway, some hold by the window and others hold outside.

For those who hold the Menorah is situated at a doorway, on the side opposite the Mezuzah. If there is no Mezuzah, such as in a hotel, the Menorah is placed at the right side of the door. [If the Menorah was placed on the wrong side, one has still fulfilled his obligation.]

The Menorah should be placed within the actual doorway, as close to the doorpost as possible. [If this is not feasible, it should at least be placed within a Tefach (8cm) of the doorway.] It does not matter if the flames span north-south or east-west.

It is preferable to use the doorway of the room where one eats, as opposed to the doorway of the room where one sleeps.

Although it is preferable for the head of the household to light at the main eating area, nevertheless, each child should light at the entrance to his personal bedroom, unless there are safety concerns.

When more than one person lights at the same venue, each set of flames should be noticeably distinct from the others. In practice, this is easily accomplished when everyone uses a separate Menorah. However, when two people improvise by sharing the same Menorah (e.g. during the first nights of Chanukah), or by not using a Menorah at all, there should be a clear gap between each set of flames.

Those who have the custom to light in the window should make sure it is safe to do so.

The Menorah should be lit facing the street rather than the back of the house.

It should be lit on the right side of the window.

Some have the custom to light outside on the edge of their property closer to public property.

If one regularly lights outside, yet someone gave them a new silver Menorah, in fear of it being stolen one should rather light their old Menorah outside.

Those in a Yeshivah dormitory, seminary or at an overnight camp should follow the instructions of their Hanhalah.

The Menorah is situated so that the flames are anywhere between 3 Tefachim (24cm) and 10 Tefachim (80cm) from the floor. If the Menorah is placed higher, it is still acceptable (unless the flames are higher than twenty Amot – 9.6 meters). A large Menorah which is taller than 10 Tefachim may be used even in the first instance.

The Menorah must not be situated in a place where there is a strong possibility that it will be extinguished, e.g. by winds or vandals.

☞ PREPARING THE MENORAH

Ideally, a nice Menorah should be used.

The Lubavitcher Rebbe discouraged the use of Menorahs with round branches as per Rashi's interpretation. Instead, Chabad use either a Menorah with diagonal (or square-shaped) branches, or one with no branches at all.

The Menorah must be designed so that all the flames are in a straight line and at the same height. The flames should not be too close together, as they need to appear noticeably distinct. [Furthermore, wax candles need to be sufficiently spaced so that the heat of the flames do not melt the wax of the adjacent candles.] One should be especially attentive to this when improvising without a Menorah.

Each day of Chanukah, the Menorah is prepared in advance, so that it is ready at the appropriate time.

The Shamash is situated higher or separate than the other flames.

One Shamash is sufficient for multiple Menorahs when they are right next to each other, but not when they are situated in different parts of the room.

☞ THE WICKS

Wicks are preferably made of cotton or linen. [If these are unavailable, the wicks may be made of any material.]

Some have the practice to replace the wicks every day and some have the custom not to do so, being that used wicks are easier to kindle. [According to the latter custom, the newly added lamp is prepared with the wick that was lit first on the previous night.]

☞ THE FUEL

Ideally, olive oil is used to fuel the flames, and a beeswax candle for the Shamash. [If these are not available, one should use a type of oil or wax candle that burns a clear flame. If this is not possible, any type of oil or wax candle may be used.]

The Menorah may be prepared with oil remaining from the previous night.

Before kindling, one ensures that the Menorah has sufficient fuel to last the required duration – at least 50 minutes in total, and at least 30 minutes after Tzeit Hakochavim (whichever is longer).

Some candles manufactured for Chanukah typically burn for only half-hour. If these are lit before Tzeit Hakochavim, one would not be able to recite the Brachot. Furthermore, even if lighting after Tzeit Hakochavim, such candles tend to burn for less than half-hour in a warm environment. Therefore, longer lasting candles should be used. [When necessary, there is room to be lenient for a child under Bar Mitzvah who is unaware that the candles are burning less than they should.]

If one realized after lighting that there is insufficient oil, he should not merely add more oil. Instead, he must extinguish the flames, add more oil, and then relight the flames without the Brachot.

🕯️ MENORAH LIGHTING: WHEN?

Many light the Menorah after Maariv and some light immediately after sunset, between Mincha and Maariv.

If that is not possible, one should light as soon as possible after that time. [Technically, one may light all night, until dawn. However, if very late, one should arrange for another person to be awake and present for the Menorah lighting.]

When lighting after Tzeit Hakochavim, one davens Maariv first, unless there is no Minyan scheduled until later, or unless he regularly davens with a Minyan that is scheduled later.

If one cannot light the Menorah at night, he may also light any time after Plag Hamincha. [In this case, one will need to use additional oil, enough to last until half-hour after Tzeit Hakochavim.]

One may not light before Plag Hamincha. If he did so, he must relight at the correct time, and recite the Brachot again.

🕯️ BEFORE LIGHTING

Once the sun sets, one may not perform any activity that might distract him from lighting the Menorah. Therefore, one may not eat more than 57 grams of bread, drink alcoholic beverages, perform work, or even study Torah.

Similarly, one should not begin these activities within the half-hour period prior to sunset, unless he appoints a Shomer (guardian) to remind him to light the Menorah at sunset. Nevertheless, one may learn during this time.

If, for whatever reason, one began these activities within the half-hour period prior to sunset, he may continue until sunset. At that time, he must immediately stop whatever he is doing.

One may begin these activities before the half-hour period prior to sunset and continue until sunset. [Technically, he may continue even after sunset and light the Menorah afterwards. Nevertheless, it is commendable to stop as soon as the sun sets in order to light the Menorah.]

One may not take a nap within the half-hour period before sunset, or afterwards, until he lights the Menorah.

All the above applies to all men and women, even if he or she will discharge their obligation through watching or participating in someone else's lighting of the Menorah. [Nevertheless, there is room to be lenient for those who are not actually lighting the Menorah themselves.]

🕯️ MENORAH LIGHTING: HOW?

Before making the Brachot, one lights the Shamash. While making the Brachot and lighting the flames, the Shamash is held in the right hand.

On the first night, three Brachot are said. On the following nights, only two Brachot are recited, as Shehecheyanu is omitted.

One must recite the Brachot and kindle the flames whilst standing unsupported, without leaning on anything. If this is not possible, or after the fact, the Mitzvah is fulfilled even if sitting.

After one completely finishes reciting all of the Brachot, the flames are lit without delay, from left to right.

One may not speak between the Brachot and the conclusion of lighting the Menorah. [If one did speak, he does not repeat the Brachot, unless he said something totally unrelated to the lighting of the Menorah, and he did so before kindling even one flame.]

Although the Menorah is not supposed to be moved once lit, one may move it a Tefach or two if this is necessary to facilitate its lighting, and then return it to its original position. (This may be practically relevant for someone who is infirm and cannot reach the Menorah.)

Some hold that Haneirot Halalu is said or sung after the first flame is lit and some hold that only after all the flames are completely lit and the Shamash is set down, followed by Maoz Tzur in many communities.

🕯️ AFTER LIGHTING

The flames should burn for at least 50 minutes in total, and for at least 30 minutes after Tzeit Hakochavim (whichever is longer).

If a flame extinguished during this time, it is appropriate to relight it (without reciting the Brachot).

During this time, the Chanukah flames may not be used for any purpose. This includes using a flame to light another Chanukah flame or the Shamash.

Similarly, benefit may not be derived from any of the light generated by the flames. This is one of the reasons why the Shamash flame is placed higher than the other flames, in order that any inadvertent benefit may be attributed to the Shamash. Nevertheless, one should not rely on the Shamash, and instead ensure that the room is well-lit.

The Menorah should not be moved during this time.

It is customary for women and men to refrain from any labor (i.e. sewing, knitting, laundering or ironing) during this time. It is also preferable to avoid leaving the house to go shopping, or the like.

One should sit by the Menorah for at least half-hour, and utilize the time for learning, or for Chanukah inspiration.

After the flames have burned for the required amount of time, the Menorah may be moved, even if the flames are still burning. Similarly, at this time, women may perform labor outside the view of the burning flames.

Even after the required amount of time has passed, it is still inappropriate to derive benefit from the flames or to extinguish them (unless leaving them unattended would create a safety hazard).

During Chanukah, the Menorah should not be used for any other purpose. Similarly, after the Menorah flames are extinguished, the leftover wicks and fuel should not be discarded or used for other purposes. Instead, it should be kept until the last day of Chanukah.

🕯️ SHUL MENORAH

The Shul Menorah is situated at the southern side of the Shul, with the flames spanning east-west.

The Shul Menorah should be easily visible to the entire Shul. It is therefore placed higher than 10 Tefachim (80cm).

Except for Motzei Shabbat, the Shul Menorah is lit after Mincha and before Maariv. Some schedule Mincha so that the Menorah will be lit after Plag Hamincha, but before sunset.

The Shul Menorah is prepared before Mincha so as not to disturb anyone's concentration during Mincha. Just as with a personal Menorah, it must be prepared with enough fuel to burn until at least half-hour after Tzeit Hakochavim.

At the end of Mincha, immediately before Aleinu, one of the congregants recites the Brachot and lights the Menorah. Afterwards, all present say or sing Haneirot Halalu (and Maoz Tzur), followed by Aleinu.

On the first night of Chanukah, the Shul Menorah should not be lit by an Avel (within 12 months of a parent's passing or within 30 days of a spouse, child or sibling's passing).

One does not fulfil his obligation with the Menorah that is lit in Shul. Even the one who kindles the Menorah in Shul must relight at home, with the Brachot. [On the first night, he does not repeat Shehecheyanu, unless he is also lighting on behalf of others who have not yet fulfilled their obligation.]

Throughout the 24 hours of each day of Chanukah, the flames of the Shul Menorah (including the Shamash) remain lit whenever people are present in the Shul, provided that there are no safety concerns. At the very least, the flames should remain lit during the times of davening. [If the flames need to be relit during the course of the 24 hours, they are lit with a Shamash, but without reciting the Brachot.]

🕯️ PIRSUMEI NISSA

A major emphasis of Chanukah is Pirsumei Nissa. Most years this would include Menorah lightings in the most public places possible, and events which promote the spirit of Chanukah, however, due to the pandemic, it is more important to adhere to the Ministry of Health relevant for one's country or city.

If permissible by the authorities, one should try to participate in these activities and help ensure their success, even if this requires postponing one's personal Menorah lighting to a later hour.

The flames of the public Menorah must be no taller than twenty Amot (9.6 metres) from the ground.

The public Menorah should not be situated in a place where there is a strong possibility that it will be extinguished, e.g. by winds or vandals.

Since it is ideal for the Brachot to be recited when kindling a public Menorah, the lighting should be scheduled after Plag Hamincha, and the Menorah should have enough fuel to burn at least half-hour after Tzeit Hakochavim, just as with a personal Menorah. [Otherwise, the public Menorah should still be lit, but without the Brachot.]

The Brachot are recited when burning a liquid or solid fuel – as opposed to gas, butane, propane or electricity.

The Brachot are recited only by the one who is lighting the Menorah. [On the first night, he recites Shehecheyanu – even if he already recited it beforehand when lighting the Shul Menorah or at home.] The audience should be forewarned not to recite the Brachot along with him, but rather, just to answer Amen.

The flames should be lit without moving the lamps out of place.

Just as in Shul, one does not fulfil his obligation by attending (or lighting) a public Menorah. The participants should be made aware of this. [Even the one who kindles the public Menorah must relight at home, with the Brachot. On the first night, he does not repeat Shehecheyanu, unless he is also lighting on behalf of others who have not yet fulfilled their obligation.]

One should try to reach out to those in hospitals, old-age homes and prisons.

When the person lighting the Menorah does not know the Brachot, one may prompt him word by word, or recite the Brachot on his or her behalf. [In the latter instance, if one will still need to fulfil the Mitzvah himself at a later time, he should have in mind to be Motzeh the listeners but not himself.]

Shehecheyanu is said the first time one fulfils the Mitzvah, even if it is after the first day of Chanukah.

When visiting a hospital or old age home, one should be mindful as to whether it is a place where the Brachot may be recited. If not, the Menorah should be lit without reciting the Brachot.

Gatherings should be arranged for adults and children, especially for those not yet familiar with Chanukah. The opportunity should be utilized to rejoice with them; to teach them about Chanukah; to share words of Torah; to light the Menorah and give Tzedakah with them; and to give them Chanukah Gelt.

Where possible, these gatherings should be scheduled to allow the Menorah to be lit after Plag Hamincha, so that the Brachot will be recited. If this is not practical, the Menorah should still be lit, but without the Brachot.

When distributing doughnuts, latkes or other food, one should ensure that the appropriate Brachot are made for each food item.

🕯️ TACHNUN & V'AL HANISSIM

Tachnun is not recited from Mincha of Erev Chanukah until after Chanukah.

V'al Hanissim is recited in each Amidah of Chanukah. [One should not intentionally skip V'al Hanissim to recite Kedushah or Modim with the Minyan.]

If one forgot V'al Hanissim at the appropriate place in the Amidah, he may recite it before saying Hashem's name at the end of that Brachah. After that point, he does not recite it.

V'al Hanissim is recited each time one bentches during Chanukah. If one forgot V'al Hanissim at the appropriate place in bentching, he may recite it before saying Hashem's name at the end of that Brachah. After that point, he may recite it as a Harachaman, as per the Nusach printed in some siddurim.

🕯️ HALLEL

Full Hallel is recited each day of Chanukah, right after The Amidah of Shacharit. If the Chazzan is a mourner (for a deceased parent) during the first eleven months, someone else takes over for Hallel, but not for the Kaddish which follows.

One must recite Hallel whilst standing unsupported. If this is not possible, or after the fact, the Mitzvah is fulfilled even if sitting.

One may not interrupt full Hallel other than for those things that one may respond to during the Brachot of Kriat Shema. [E.g. If the Chazzan recites Kaddish, one answers Amen Yehei Shmei etc, and Amen to d'amiran b'alma. One also answers Barchu and Amen when the Brachot are recited before and after an Aliyah, and may also recite the Brachot if he is called up for an Aliyah.]

It is preferable to recite Hallel with the Minyan. If one is not up to the Minyan, this creates a dilemma; on the one hand it is appropriate to recite Hallel with the congregation, and on the other hand, it is appropriate that one should daven in the correct order. One should therefore make a point of being up to the Minyan when Hallel is said.

If one forgot to recite Hallel, he should recite it with a Brachah as soon as he remembers, unless the sun already set.

If one mistakenly recited half-Hallel, he must repeat the entire Hallel (without a Brachah).

After Hallel, the Chazzan recites only half Kaddish. [If he mistakenly said Kaddish Titkabel, he should recite half Kaddish after U'va L'tziyon.]

🕯️ CHANUKAH CUSTOMS

The days of Chanukah should be utilized to give extra Tzedakah and to learn additional Torah. Children should also be encouraged in this regard.

One may not fast on Chanukah – not even a Chattan or Kallah on the day of their Chuppah, or for a Yahrzeit.

It is customary to eat foods fried in oil, such as Latkes and doughnuts, to commemorate the miracle of the oil.

It is also customary to eat dairy foods, to commemorate the miracle of Yehudit.

It is customary to eat special meals to celebrate the miracles of Chanukah and the reinauguration of the Beit Hamikdash. These meals are regarded as a Seudat Mitzvah if they are accompanied by song and praise for the miracles Hashem wrought, or when their purpose is to publicize the miracle of Chanukah and enhance the observance of its Mitzvot.

On one of the nights of Chanukah, the Rebbeim of Chabad would conduct a gathering of sorts for their family members (both men and women), which was referred to as “Latkes evening”. The stories related at these gatherings included several that were repeated every single Chanukah.

The days of Chanukah should be utilized to arrange and/or participate in family, school, workplace and communal Chanukah gatherings. The purpose of these gatherings is to tell the story and spread the message of Chanukah, along with the lessons derived from it.

One gives Chanukah Gelt to his or her spouse and children (whether minors or adults) each day of Chanukah, with a special addition (double or triple) on the fourth or fifth night of Chanukah. [For Shabbat, one gives Chanukah Gelt either the day before or after. One who is stringent about handling money on Motzei Shabbat should refrain from giving Chanukah Gelt until Sunday.]

One gives Chanukah Gelt to his students.

It is appropriate for children to give Chanukah Gelt to each other.

There is no source for giving Chanukah gifts other than Gelt. [If one nevertheless does so, he should bear in mind that gifts may not be given on Shabbat unless they are used on Shabbat itself.]

It is customary to play Dreidel (sevivon). One should not play for money (unless the initial understanding is that all “wins” will be returned).

It goes without saying that gambling or playing-cards is not in the spirit of Chanukah, and is in fact a desecration. The Kedushat Levi writes that each playing-card contains tremendous impurity of the unmentionable type.

🕯️ EREV SHABBAT CHANUKAH

When possible, public Menorah lightings should still be conducted after Plag Hamincha, despite the busy hour.

The Minyan for Mincha is scheduled earlier than usual, to allow for the Menorah at home to be lit after Mincha. Nevertheless, Mincha should be late enough for the Shul Menorah to be lit after Plag Hamincha.

One should endeavor to daven Mincha with a Minyan before lighting Menorah. [If this is not possible, it is preferable to daven with a Minyan after lighting the Menorah than to daven without a Minyan before lighting the Menorah.]

The Menorah at home is lit just before the Shabbat candles are lit. The lighting of the Menorah should be scheduled so that it does not interfere with the lighting time for the Shabbat candles.

Being that the Menorah is lit on Erev Shabbat earlier than usual, one should ensure that there is enough fuel for the flames to burn for half-hour after Tzeit Hakochavim. Similarly, a longer-lasting Shamash should be used.

On Erev Shabbat, one need not sit next to the flames for half-hour.

The Menorah should be situated so that its flames are not fanned or extinguished by the opening or closing of any doors or windows, or by people passing by.

Everything beneath a lit Menorah becomes a "Bassis L'Issur" on Shabbat, and may not be moved. If the place where the Menorah is situated needs to be used, one can prevent the chair or table from becoming a Bassis L'Issur by placing a Challah or bottle of wine on it from sunset until Tzeit Hakochavim.

Similarly, one may place the Menorah on a tray which is not designated exclusively for use with a candelabra or candlesticks, and place a Challah or bottle of wine on the tray from sunset until Tzeit Hakochavim.

In both of these situations, the chair or tray – along with all of its contents – may be moved on Shabbat, but only once the location is actually needed. The chair or tray may not be moved simply for the sake of protecting the Menorah.

The chair or tray should be moved carefully, as the Menorah itself cannot be directly handled. Were the Menorah to fall whilst being moved, one would not be able to catch it or support it directly with his hands. Furthermore, if the flames are still burning, and they are fueled by oil, one must be careful that the liquid doesn't rise or fall and cause the flame to become bigger or smaller.

Another option: The Menorah (as well as the Bassis beneath it) may be moved by a non-Jew – but only if one had in mind (and preferably verbalized) at the onset of Shabbat that a non-Jew would move it after the flames extinguished.

🕯️ SHABBAT CHANUKAH

Shabbat Chanukah this year is also the first day of Rosh Chodesh. Throughout davening, one should remember to recite Ya'aleh Veyavo.

If one forgot Ya'aleh Veyavo in davening, or is unsure whether he recited it:

- At Maariv, one does not correct his omission.
- At Shacharit and Mincha, if he realized before saying Hashem's name at the end of Hamachazir Shechinato L'tziyon, he goes back. If he remembered between the conclusion of that Brachah and Modim, he recites it at that point, without going back. If he remembers any time after that point, but before he began reciting (the second) Yih'yu L'ratzon, he returns to the beginning of Retzei. If he remembered only afterwards, he must repeat the entire Amidah.

- If one forgot Ya'aleh Veyavo during Shacharit and only realized after Musaf, he does not repeat Shacharit.

- If one forgot Ya'aleh Veyavo during Mincha, and only realized after the Zman Tefillah has passed, he must recite an additional Amidah during Maariv, as compensation. Atah Chonantanu is recited only the first time. If one mistakenly said it only the second time, he must repeat the Amidah a third time without it. However, if one mistakenly said Atah Chonantanu both times, or not at all, he does not need to recite the Amidah a third time.

- When repeating the Amidah, one should wait the span of time to walk four Amot (approx. two meters), and preferably, one should recite words of supplication between them.

During Birchat Hamazon, one should remember to recite V'al Hanissim, Retzei and Ya'aleh Veyavo. One should recite both the Harachaman for Shabbat as well as for Rosh Chodesh.

If one forgot Retzei or Ya'aleh Veyavo in Birchat Hamazon:

- If he remembered before saying Hashem's name at Bonei Yerushalayim, he goes back.
- If he remembered after that, but before beginning the next Brachah, he recites the extra Brachah as printed in some Bentchers.
- If one already began even the first word (Baruch) of the next Brachah, one must bentsch again for omitting Retzei, but not for omitting Ya'aleh Veyavo.
- When one forgot Retzei and bentsches again, he need not repeat V'al Hanissim if he already recited it the first time, but he should still repeat Ya'aleh Veyavo.

Three Sifrei Torah are taken out for Kriat Hatorah. The Chanukah Haftorah is read, some add the first and last Passuk of the Rosh Chodesh Haftorah, followed by the first and last Passuk of the Machar Chodesh Haftorah.

Av Harachamim and Tzidkatecha are not recited.

For Musaf, one davens Atah Yatzarta. [If one neglected to do so, but remembered before he began reciting (the second) Yih'yu L'ratzon at the end of the Amidah, he returns to Atah Yatzarta. If he remembered only afterwards, he must repeat the entire Amidah.]

It is customary to eat something special in honor of Rosh Chodesh, distinct from the special foods that one eats in honor of Shabbat and Chanukah.

🕯️ MOTZEI SHABBAT AND SUNDAY

Maariv should be davened promptly.

Motzei Shabbat and Sunday is the second day of Rosh Chodesh. Throughout davening, one should recite Ya'aleh Veyavo. During Birchat Hamazon, one should recite Ya'aleh Veyavo, as well as the Harachaman for Rosh Chodesh. [See previous section for one who forgot, or is unsure, whether he recited Ya'aleh Veyavo in davening or bentsching. If one forgot Ya'aleh Veyavo during Mincha on the second day of Rosh Chodesh, and only realized after the Zman Tefillah has passed, he recites the Amidah twice during Maariv, but does not recite Ya'aleh Veyavo in either.]

The Shul Menorah is lit, Haneirot Halalu and Maoz Tzur are sung right before Aleinu. [See section entitled "Shul Menorah" for more details.] As usual, Havdallah in Shul is not recited until Maariv is completely finished. In communities where they say V'Yiten Lechah in Shul before Aleinu, they should light before V'Yiten Lechah.

One should go home quickly, in order to light the Menorah as soon as possible.

At home, most make Havdallah first, followed by Menorah lighting, Haneirot Halalu, Maoz Tzur and V'Yiten Lechah, some make Havdallah after Menorah lighting, and some make Havdallah and say V'Yiten Lechah prior to Menorah lighting

Although one normally recites half-Hallel on Rosh Chodesh, full Hallel is recited when it falls on Chanukah.

Two Sifrei Torah are taken out for Kriat Hatorah, with the first three Aliyot for Rosh Chodesh, and the fourth for Chanukah.

It is customary to eat something special in honor of Rosh Chodesh, distinct from the foods eaten in honor of Chanukah.

🕯️ ZOT CHANUKAH (SUNDAY NIGHT / MONDAY)

The last night and day of Chanukah is known as Zot Chanukah.

The wicks and oils remaining from the Menorah are gathered together and burned on the last day of Chanukah. [This does not apply to the wicks or oil that were not used at all, such as any oil remaining in the flask.] No benefit should be derived from this fire.
